SUSTAINABLE MOBILITY: 3 EVENTS TO TAKE ACTION

PRESS RELEASE

As part of European Mobility Week 2023, which takes place from 16 to 22 September, IMS Luxembourg is organising with partners three awareness-raising and practical events to promote sustainable mobility in Luxembourg: a car-free day on 18 September, bike mobility at Belval on 19 September and a workshop to share best practices on 21 September.

These events aim to raise awareness, start a conversation within companies and between employees, and propose alternatives and best practices to implement concrete actions.

CAR-FREE DAY, 18 SEPTEMBER

To kick off European Mobility Week, several organisations at Cloche d'Or will be holding a 'Car Free Day'. On Monday, 18 September, employees of these organisations will be invited to travel to work by public transport and/or bicycle. This way, the impact of their journeys will be reduced on the day, and new habits may be created. Five organisations are already participating in this initiative: the European Commission, Deloitte Foundation, PwC, Schroeder & Associés and VAUBAN.

SUSTAINABLE MOBILITY IN PRACTICE, 21 SEPTEMBER

What innovative solutions can companies offer to encourage sustainable mobility? How can car-pooling and car-sharing incentives be put in place? How do different companies manage their car parks? How can we encourage people to cycle to work?

Employee mobility accounts for a significant proportion of an organisation's carbon footprint. This issue is at the heart of CSR policies to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions.

On the agenda: The workshop, in the form of a "World Café" will enable participants to draw inspiration from existing good practices and share their experiences. This solutions-oriented workshop will use this collective intelligence process to create practical fact sheets on each theme.
